ESSANAY WESTERN LUBIN CINES

A MOONSHINER'S HEART—Essanay Western. The sheriff and his men get wise to a still conducted in the neighboring vicinity and decide to raid it. With G. M. ANDERSON.

THE DIVINE SOLUTION—Lubin. A story of a young girl marrying a man whom she afterwards discovered would do most anything to get liquor, even to stealing her rings off her fingers, but a divine solution came to cure him.

TOO MANY SWEETHEARTS—Cines Comedy. George is a very impressionable young fellow, but he spends too much time before he "pops the question", and gets left all around.

Be sure to put your guess in as to how many pictures are on a portion of moving picture film to be displayed in the window to-morrow. Everybody gets one guess, whether attending the show or not, and to the one guessing the nearest the correct number gets the dollar. Guesses received at the ticket office from one to five.

FARMERS' DAY EXHIBITS HERE

Business People Receiving and Putting on Display Fruit and Vegetables for Farmers' Day Exhibits. All Ready.

Though the hour for receiving Farmers' Day exhibits does not close until nine o'clock Saturday morning almost every business place in town has some county product ready for display this afternoon and others are being added rapidly. Indications are that the day will exceed all expectations.

The final arrangements have been completed. The six judges have been secured and will start their work promptly on Saturday morning after nine o'clock and continue until the big task is accomplished. Three men and three women have consented to act. All are from the county towns outside of Gettysburg and their names will not be announced until to-morrow.

The hour for judging the prettiest country girls, not over 20 years of age, will be from two to three o'clock when all contestants are expected to report at S. E. Trimmer's five and ten cent store. The same hour all those exhibiting four horse teams will take them in front of Stahlsmith's news stand. The two horse teams are to be taken to Landau's drug store between 11 and 12 o'clock in the morning.

From the number of telephone calls and other inquiries received at this office concerning Farmers' Day arrangements it would be reasonable to believe that the entire community will be in to spend the day and see the exhibits and enjoy the fun. The morning will be spent in viewing the displays while, in the afternoon, band concerts and other forms of entertainment will be provided for everybody.

Two more premiums have been listed. George Reichle will give a large roast of beef to the man selling him the most hogs on Farmers' Day, and Haines, the shoe wizard, will give a pair of shoes to the man with the largest waist measure.

STUCKENBERG LECTURE

The first of this year's series of free lectures at the college was given Thursday evening in Brua Chapel before a large audience by President King, of Oberlin College, whose subject was "Reverence for Personality". President King held the close attention of the audience for more than an hour and the lecture was deemed one of the best since the free lecture courses have been held. It was the first to be given under the establishment of the Stuckenberg Lectureship on Social Science in Gettysburg College. A gift of $1000 has been made for its endowment in honor of the late Dr. J. H. W. Stuckenberg, a warm friend of the college and for many years pastor of the American Church in Berlin. Preceding Wednesday night's lecture the Glee Club sang several selections.

The Rhodes Scholarship examination for the State of Pennsylvania have just been held at Gettysburg College under the supervision of President Granville. Candidates from all over the state were present to take the examinations among which were five from Gettysburg College. The winners of these scholarships will be educated in English universities at the expense of the Rhodes Foundation.

FINDS HIS STOLEN BUGGY NEAR HOME

Mysterious Disappearance of Buggy belonging to Marks Bream, of Near York Springs, is Explained. Simple Enough.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of the buggy and harness of Marks Bream, when his team was taken from York Springs several weeks ago, has been cleared up. It has been found that the missing vehicle was within a few miles of Mr. Bream's farm.

Jeffre Marks, who had been working for William Hayberger, of Tyrone township, for the past summer is charged with taking the team.

On the Sunday morning following the disappearance of the team young Marks asked Mr. Hayberger for the loan of a horse to bring home a buggy that he said he (Marks) had purchased from John Shultz, Jr. Mr. Hayberger gave the boy the horse and in due time the buggy was put in the Hayberger wagon shed.

As Mr. Shultz left for a trip west about that time nothing further was thought about the matter until he returned home last week and it developed that he had sold a buggy but not to Marks.

Mr. Bream learned of the buggy deal and went up to the Hayberger farm and identified and secured his property. In the meantime Marks had left for parts unknown.

No blame is attached to Mr. Hayberger in the occurrence.

MRS. SICKLES SAVES

HUSBAND'S HOME AGAIN

A plea against the personal effects of General Daniel E. Sickles, Civil War veteran and former Ambassador to Spain, was made Thursday by his estranged wife to Sheriff Hartberger, who agreed to a postponement of the threatened sale when Mrs. Sickles promised to pay about November 10 money necessary to satisfy a new judgment against her husband.

This is the second time within a few weeks that Mrs. Sickles has come to the vet. r. aid. On the other occasion she pawned her jewelry that was her property when a belle in the court of Spain when General Sickles knew her there. This action led to a report that the couple would be united but although Mrs. Sickles paid the judgment their social relation remained as before each issued a statement declaring their reconciliation was impossible.

MILDER WINTER THAN LAST, THE SIGNS SAY

There are many signs of Indian summer. The second crop of ripe strawberries, apple trees in bloom, dandelion blossoms in profusion, laurel in bloom in the mountains, and wrens chirping their merriest songs during the early morning hours, are among these. Besides, there are evidences on all sides that the fall thus far for pleasant weather has been a record breaker for many a year. If signs point to anything, the approaching winter will be much less severe than last. The ground squirrels were never known to be more plentiful, and, instead of being busily engaged in harvesting the crop of chestnuts for the winter, they are playing tag with each other among the rocks in the mountain.

BULGARIANS TAKE TURKISH CITY

Capture Kirk-Kiliseh and 5000 of the Enemy.

MANY KILLED IN FIGHTING

King Ferdinand's Army Takes Position After Several Days' Struggle and Opens Way to Adrianople.

London, Oct. 25.—A dispatch from Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, says that Kirk-Kiliseh has been captured by the Bulgarian army, which has been fighting against the Turkish troops in the vicinity of Adrianople for several days.

The possession of this fortress opens the way to a Bulgarian advance upon Adrianople, as Kirk-Kiliseh is regarded as the key to this great fortress, and is the headquarters of the Turkish Third Army Corps, commanded by Keenan Pasha.

The Turkish garrison at Kirk-Kiliseh, consisting of 5000 men, surrendered to the Bulgarians. The Turkish generals were among those captured. The fighting lasted five days, with heavy losses of life on both the Turkish and the Bulgarian sides. The capture of Adrianople is the next objective of the Bulgarians.

The Turkish garrison of Adrianople suffered heavy losses during the sortie from the northeastern quarter of the town. They left twelve cannon on the field when they retired.

The reports issued from the opposing sides as to the other battles show grave discrepancies, but the public is at least able to choose between the two reports.

As to the main event near Adrianople, British military officers who for many years have made a specialty of studying the Balkan military preparations lean to the belief that the Turkish army has been holding the line between Adrianople and Kirk-Kiliseh with a covering force estimated at about 70,000 men, and that the main Ottoman army is only just due on the scene. This might account for the Turkish statement that something more definite will be known with the arrival of her main army at the front, when Turkey is expected to take the offensive.

Another fierce encounter is in progress around Kumanova, on the way to Uskup, where both Servians and Turks claim the victory. The Turkish official report, on the one hand, says the Servians have been completely routed, while the Servians assert that they have taken one part of the town and continue to make progress. It is possible that the reports refer to different parts of the area, which is an extended one.

Other indications than the Turkish report show that the Servians have suffered severely. A call was issued at Belgrade for all retired and reserve officers, as well as military employees, lawyers and engineers, to join the Seventh Serbian regiment, the crack corps of Belgrade, within forty-eight hours. Some doubts are expressed in Belgrade whether the cartridge factories in Serbia will be able to issue cartridges fast enough to supply the needs of the hard-fighting troops.

There has also been some severe fighting in the Struma Valley, near Kumanova, where again both sides claim the victory. For the time being operations have slackened in the Novi-Bazar district, where the Servians and Montenegrins are attempting to make a forward move. The capture of the town of Novibazar by the Serbian troops advances this object considerably, but the troops, who have passed through a terrific battle, must be allowed some rest. The losses on both sides at Novibazar were heavy.

The Greeks also for the moment appear to be satisfied with the capture of the Turkish town of Servio, although their cavalry is pursuing the retreating Turks through the valley of Allakmon and attempting to cut the Turkish troops off.

TORTOISE BURNS A CHURCH

That Is, It Upset a Lamp, Which Started the Fire.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 25.—A tortoise set fire to St. Mark's Episcopal church here. Considerable damage resulted, and twenty-five tortoises were killed. Rev. John H. Houghton, rector of St. Marks, kept the twenty-five tortoises in a box in the guild room of the church. A lamp had been placed in the box to keep the tortoises warm. One of the tortoises knocked over the lamp, thus starting the fire.

TAFT MAKES PLEA FOR PROTECTION

Says Business Must Not Be "Football of Politics."

DEFENDS HIS STEEL VETO

In a Letter to Hardware Men at Shore the President Reasserts His Belief in Tariff Board.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 25.—Setting forth his belief in a tariff board or commission and defending his veto of the steel tariff revision bill passed by congress, President Taft set forth his views on the tariff in a letter read at the session here of the American Hardware Manufacturers' association and the National Hardware association.

The letter was addressed to G. H. Jantz, president of the American association, and in it the president sounded the slogan that "we must not make legitimate business the football of politics." "I am a firm believer in a tariff board of tariff commission. I do not contend that the tariff can be taken out of politics in the sense that it will never be made the subject of political controversy. Men differ radically as to the economical wisdom of a protective tariff or a tariff for revenue only, and that must always be the subject of political discussion. But there is a means of taking the ascertainment of facts away from a tribunal like the way and means committee, which is necessarily hurried in its conclusions and necessarily lacking in the thoroughness and temper which are essential to reach impartial conclusions.

"Probably no industries affected by the tariff need scientific and impartial conclusions more than those which are represented in your convention. In my message of Aug. 14 last, returning to the congress without my approval, I pointed out that in this schedule, iron and steel, as primary products, are less than one-third in value of the subject matter covered by the schedule.

"I presented a table showing that included in the metals schedule are fifty-nine allied industries of sufficient importance to justify separate classification, study and report by the census bureau. I pointed out further that foundry and machine shop products, which are secondary products of the iron and steel industry, are made by more than 13,000 competing establishments, with an invested capital of more than $1,500,000,000, with more than 500,000 wage earners employed and producing nearly $1,250,000,000 in value of products annually.

"Every dollar of this capital and every workman employed in the industry was directly affected by the bill, and I could not find in the discussion of the schedule that serious consideration had been given to the effect of this revision on this particular branch of the industry, and the same thing is true of more than two-thirds of the industries covered by the schedule.

"There was little logical relation between the reductions made by this bill in the schedule. For example, steam engines and machine tools in the present law are dutiable at 30 per cent. In this revision steam engines were reduced to 15 per cent, and the whole machine-tool industry was put on the free list, without any reason whatever being given in the report of the ways and means committee in either case for such action. The term 'machine tools' has already been the subject of much litigation, and its scope should be clearly defined before the great variety of articles which it now seems to cover are placed on the free list.

"The expansion of our foreign trade would seem to demand that a transfer to the free list of such an enormous range of undetermined products and the opening of the best market in the world to free and unrestricted competition should not be made without at the same time at least securing, as in the case now of specified agricultural implements, the privilege of a like free entry into the markets of our competitors.

"I refer to these facts to bring home to the members of your association some of the dangers of ill-considered political tinkering with business. I vetoed the bill which would have spelled ruin to many of you, because I was unwilling to approve legislation which vitally affected not only millions of workmen and the families dependent on them, but hundreds of millions of dollars worth of stocks of goods in the hands of storekeepers and distributors generally, without first providing for a careful and disinterested inquiry into the conditions of the entire industry.

"And so I say, we must not make legitimate business the football of politics. We must have investments from which to secure a large wage fund which is needed to support the wage earners. We must inspire in the business men, who control those investments, the confidence that they will not be driven out of business."

BECKER GUILTY OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

The Jury's Verdict Stuns the Defendant.

New York, Oct. 25.—"Guilty of murder in the first degree," was the verdict of Lieutenant Becker's jury for the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal.

The jury had been out exactly seven hours and fifty-seven minutes. The length of its deliberation, and the frequency of its requests for exhibits, together with unmistakable signs of not argument in the jury room, had led most of those who waited late at the criminal courts building to believe that there would be no agreement.

When the blow finally fell upon the defendant its force was all the more crushing. Even the district attorney himself a few minutes before had said that it looked like a disagreement. Becker's lawyers had grown more confident as the hours sped. Becker himself, chatting pleasantly with his wife, the Platt brothers and a former reporter, Frederick H. Hawley, who had testified in his behalf, was serenely confident that there could be no answer from the jury room save "Not guilty."

The convicted man bore up under the shock with grimness and resolution. No less remarkable was the fortitude which the wife of the convicted man withstood the first impact of the worst of news.

STRANGE SEARCH FOR LOST GEMS

Woman Loses Her Jewels to a Stranger.

$5000 REWARD FOR RETURN

New York Society Leader Relieved of Gems Worth $100,000 While on a Carouse.

New York, Oct. 25.—A young married woman, whose name is on the preferred list of New York and Newport's social rosters, and whose brother-in-law is "one of the biggest men in New York," according to her own confession, is willing to pay $5000 for the recovery of nearly $100,000 worth of jewels which were stolen from her on Tuesday night.

Furthermore, she is more than anxious to pay this sum with no questions asked if only she can recover her gems and keep hidden her identity and the escapade of Tuesday night which led to the levitation of diamonds and pearls of great price from her fingers and from about her neck.

A saloonkeeper and a private detective and a chambermaid in a hotel of questionable character are the only three people aside from the thief himself who know what the pet of society is willing to pay a king's ransom to conceal.

Here is the way this One Thousand and Second Arabian Night was revealed to one John H. Beckman, the keeper of a Raines law hotel, whose place of business is at Ninth avenue and Twenty-third street:

It was at about nine o'clock on Wednesday morning, when the last of the patrons of his dining room had long since gone, that a woman, whose radiantly beautiful features showed the strain of past revelry and whose gown was one such as is never seen off Fifth avenue, and there only in a foreign limousine, entered the dining room through the so-called "ladies' entrance" and took her seat alone. When a waiter came she ordered a cocktail and a light breakfast.

The proprietor himself came into the dining room at this juncture to verify the tale the waiter had told him of "a real swell dame" who was ordering ham and eggs and a dry Martini there. He led the way to the only telephone in the establishment, in a little drinking room off the bar. The fair unknown called a certain number—she told Beckman frankly that she was going to ring up a private detective named Charles Smith.

As the story was told, it developed that the strange woman had dined at the Hotel Astor with friends. But she had not provided herself with an escort, and after the dinner, at which wine was poured copiously, she started for the subway station at the Times Square. It was here on the sidewalk that the "gentleman" designated in the ad took notice of the finely gown woman of middle age, who appeared to be weathering a storm. His manner was respectful, it seems, his voice well modulated for the night air, and like a Chesterfield of the drawing room or a knight errant abroad, he rushed to the aid of a woman in distress, and offered her all the assistance in his power. And then it seems that the pair went up the subway as far as Seventy-second street, and here the escort proved himself unworthy of trust and confidence, for he gave the woman some sort of drug that induces sleep or abandon.

It seems that the escort was a villain, because he let the woman find her way from Seventy-second street and Broadway, and, as she discovered later, left her to find the rich gems, worth thousands, if she could.

The woman whose confidence was misplaced, it seems, did not awake to the importance of her position until she found herself bereft of her jewels and away down near the Beckman hotel, at Ninth avenue and Twenty-third street. The taxi was near to take her away.

Smith never saw her before, it is said. Beckman thinks he will never see her again, but any way Smith did what he agreed to do when the woman offered that $5000 premium for the return of the gems which were taken by mistake by an escort.

PRAYING FOR CZAREVITCH

Russia's Wild Rumors Tell of Czarina's Vigil.

Berlin, Oct. 25.—Startling rumors concerning the condition of the czarvitch and the nature of the wound or ailment from which he was suffering were current here.

One rumor had it that the eight-year-old heir to the Russian throne was stabbed by a Nihilist.

A report of some standing was to the effect that the boy prince was a victim of serious kidney trouble. Of none of the rumors was there the slightest verification, nor was accurate information obtainable as to the young patient's present state.

The czarina, according to one report, tried to leap from a high window when she learned how seriously her son was ill. She and her sister, the Princess Henry, were nursing him.

From the fact that prayers are being offered in all churches for the patient's recovery it was believed he was in grave danger.

The czarvitch was supposed at first to have been slightly injured by a fall from his pony at the imperial hunting lodge in Russian Poland.

MORIN ACQUITTED OF MALFEASANCE

Pittsburgh's Safety Director Freed of Charge.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 25.—By a vote of six to three, John M. Morin, director of public safety of Pittsburgh and nomininee for congressman-at-large, was acquitted by the city council of the charges of malfeasance in office.

By a vote of five to four, Morin was declared guilty of mismanagement of the powerful municipal department of which he is the head.

Prior to the vote in the Morin case, which has been agitated since last May, the council, which consists of nine members, acquitted by a unanimous vote Joseph G. Armstrong, the director of public works, who also was charged with malfeasance.

There had been some disposition to postpone the vote in the cases until after election, but demand was made that the cases be decided more promptly because of Morin's being a nomininee for office, and this resulted in the action.

The charges of malfeasance brought against John M. Morin, director of public safety of Pittsburgh, became public last May and were formally laid before the city council by the "Citizens' League," of which A. Leo Weil is the president and moving spirit.

Involved in the impeachment proceedings instituted, with Morin as the chief target, were Joseph G. Armstrong, director of public works, and Dr. E. R. Walters, director of health. Dr. Walters's case has not been tried.

The charges made against Morin were fifteen general allegations, charging him with permitting the operation of illegal liquor selling, and that he "is inexperienced as to the duties of his office and is incompetent and incapable of performing the same."

New York, Oct. 25.—Because his heart is on the right side, little David Krunish left the Fordham hospital well on the road to recovery.

David, who is eleven years old, fell on a picket fence last Monday, and one of the spikes penetrated his breast three inches directly over the place where his heart should be.

Most Farmers

Do not object to their neighbors and friends hunting on their land or to any others who have due regard for their property, but all farmers do object to the hunter who tramples down grain, tears down fences and does damage. The surest way to protect yourself is to placard your property. Cardboard trespass signs 5c. each, 6 for 25c.; muslin signs 10c. each, 3 for 25c. And in order to keep undesirable hunters from coming out to your land and possibly disregard such signs, the best thing you could do would be to place your name in our trespass list. Fifty cents for the entire season. See last page.

DO YOU ENJOY EATING

Or Does Everything You Eat Distress You?
Experts declare that the reason stomach disorders are so common in this country is due to hasty and careless habits of eating. Stomach troubles and rundown conditions also usually go together.
John Lind, of Oneonta, N. Y., says "I had a bad stomach trouble for fifteen years and became so weak that I could hardly walk or do any work. My appetite was very poor, and it seemed impossible to get any relief. Since taking two bottles of Vinol I find that it has already made a remarkable improvement in my health, my digestion is much stronger, and I have gained in weight."

Vinol makes weak stomachs strong because it strengthens and tones up the weakened, tired and overtaxed nerves of the digestive organs. Vinol is easily assimilated by the weakest stomachs, and is delicious to the taste.
Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

Dresses Himself in Khaki Riding Suit and Walks Downstairs.
Oyster Bay, L. I., Oct. 25.—Colonel Roosevelt is still in seclusion, but he is gaining strength so rapidly that it is expected he soon will be permitted to resume the work of the campaign.
Dr. Scurry Terrell found the patient in excellent condition. After Dr. Terrell left Colonel Roosevelt dressed himself in a khaki riding suit, his favorite costume when he is at home, and walked down the stairs unassisted.
"I feel fine," he announced. "I feel bully. I want some lunch," and for the first time since his return he joined the family circle at the dinner table.
